

Zoltán Lantos' OpenSource
Sonaris

HUNNIA RECORDS

Zoltán Lantos' OpenSource

Zoltán Lantos

5-string acoustic and electric violin, resonant string violin, voice

Áron Tálás

piano, Fender Rhodes, Moog and Nord keyboards

Tibor Fonay

acoustic bass, bass guitar

László Csízi

drums

Andrew J

turntable, live electronics

feat

Veronika Harcsa

voice (on track 04, 06 and 07)

Zoltán Lantos plays a 5-string violin by László Gáspár, a 5+16 resonant-string violin (Tarangini) by Ricardo Margarit and a 5-string electric violin by NS Design.

Special thanks to: SSR Studio personnel, my band members and Veronika Harcsa, my Mother, Roland Heidrich, Károly Zsolt Nagy, Valéria Varga, Gábor Szalai, Attila Kmety.

Two words. "Nada Brahma" - the world is sound. Sound is God. Two words, but not only words defined as an attempt to describe something you cannot otherwise perceive. It's the chronoglyph of time in a constant flow of sequential rhythm. Like in a mantra, a hidden code is unlocked and manifests itself in whatever you pronounce. Pulse is omnipresent in the act of self-preservation itself. Two words. The syllables of background radiation, the blueprint of everyday banalities, like tiny stickers on the wall. Like future memories. Like you left the coffee on the table. Two words: coffee, table. Whatever you say. Just the same.

Chronoglyph by Zoltán Lantos

Zoltán Lantos' OpenSource

Zoltán Lantos' OpenSource Sonaris

- 01 Prelude Noir
- 02 Aisma
- 03 Street-Bop
- 04 Tensegrity
- 05 Tarang
- 06 Chronoglyph
- 07 Monsoon Strangers
- 08 Sonaris

All compositions, lyrics (track 04 and 07) and poems ("Healing a stone" on track 02, "Chronoglyph" on track 06) by Zoltán Lantos

Recorded at SSR Studio in 2018
Sound Engineers: András Makay, Dexter
Mixing: Roland Heidrich
Design: HRZ
Cover photo by Zoltán Lantos
Group photo by Károly Zsolt Nagy

The recording was supported by the National Cultural Fund of Hungary
Published by: Hunnia Records & Film Production ©2018 Hunnia Records & Film Production
www.hunniarecords.com

HUNNIA RECORDS