

About the Artist

Jelte Noordveld is a pianist from Amsterdam whose solo work bridges the worlds of pop and jazz with lyrical depth and improvisational clarity. Drawing inspiration from the emotive spontaneity of Keith Jarrett, the sensitivity of Brad Mehldau, and the genre-fluid inventiveness of Herbie Hancock, Jelte brings a fresh, personal voice to the piano. His debut solo piano album captures moments of introspection, groove, and melodic storytelling — all woven together through an open, exploratory approach to the instrument. Jelte studied with Hans Vroomans and Karel Boehlee at the Conservatorium van Amsterdam. He is also an active songwriter, producer and session pianist, working across a wide range of musical genres.
