Pure DSD Recordings

Volume II

the Hunnia Records edition

There can be many different concepts and targets that can be used to create a sample album. For this Pure DSD Hunnia Records edition, I selected every song based on just one simple criterion: real musicians are playing real instruments, on one single day, in real time, here at Hunnia Studios. The songs do not sound the same. It is not bad thing. Every band, artist, sound engineer and producer has a personal favourite sound. They have their flaws, too. Sometimes they play the wrong notes, push strange ideas, but these can be good things, because a wrong note or a strange idea opens the door to something new.

Each track reflects the musicians' and engineers' good or bad moods, feelings, experimentation and choices at the time of recording. These moods, feelings, choices of that day, might already have been faded away from the memory without this recording. I hope you will like these songs and will feel the same joy that we felt on that special recording days.
