

TURTLE records

SURROUND

STEREO
SUPER AUDIO CD

castle in the air
BUZZ BROS BAND

Marnix Busstra
Berthil Busstra
René Dissel
Chris Strik

BUZZ BROS BAND

C: 'You guys ready..?'

R: 'Yeah. What's the tempo..?'

M: 'Something like: ah---ah---ah-ah-ah-ah...'

B: 'No man, slower. More like:

ah-----ah-----ah---ah---ah---ah...'

C: 'Yeah, that's it. That's the vibe...'

R: 'You're right. So, listen - what'll we call this music?

It's our baby, guys, and babies needs names...

M: 'Um, maybe something like: a kind of adventurous acoustic funky jazz-lounge with a shade of worldmusic...'

B: 'Nah, too many words, man, like always...'

C: 'Jeez, man... maybe it's better if we just play...:

ah-----ah-----ah---ah---ah---ah...'

1. Castle in the air (short version) 1:14

Settin' the pace...

2. First class seat 5:20

...no limits...

3. Pearl diver 6:09

...into the depth...

4. Nut case 5:41

...grounding...

5. Frog country 4:03

...chromatic fun...

6. Grandma and the wolf 6:27

...Jekyll and Hyde, Beauty and Beast, Yin and Yang...

7. She's gone 5:06

...gone she is...

8. Buzz Battle 2:46

...and the winner is...

9. Authentic turtle 6:39

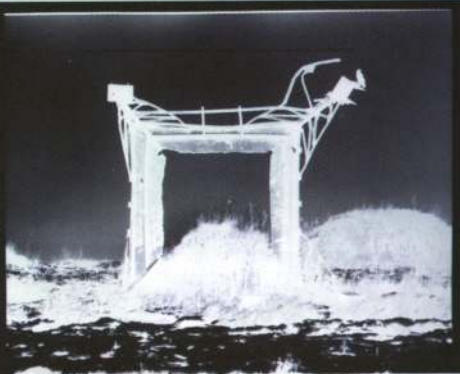

...New Orleans meets Bombay...

10. Castle in the air (long version) 7:07

...Icarus's wings...

total playing time: 50:36

The Buzz Bros Band is, along side Second Vision and the Marnix Busstra 4-tet my third, own band.

What makes this formation so special is that everything's fallen into place from the very beginning – it has never been a search, but rather a discovery, from the composition process to the live performances to these very recordings. The time was obviously ripe for this brother's band...

Berthil and I used to play a lot together, always busy with our sort of music: Miles, Hancock, Scofield, et cetera. Still, at a certain point, we grew apart and proceeded to follow our own musical paths. Logically, that period didn't seem to be the correct time to start a band together. My feelings were that it was necessary for each of us to develop musically on an individual basis, and unite again later when our specific musical strengths and personalities had grown.

A couple of years ago, we decided that the time had come. I went ahead and wrote a number of pieces for the brother's band we intended to begin, in an idiom that we both felt comfortable with and wanted to explore. It was important that this music had to be of this time, not just offer a good old times feeling.

To produce a specific sound for this band, we wanted a drummer who grooves and uses brushes exclusively and a bass player who grooves on contrabass, not on a bass guitar. Berthil suggested Chris and René, who have turned out to be an unquestionable enrichment for the band. Together, they form a unique rhythm section with a musical approach that is irreplaceable for this group. Add Berthil's Fender Rhodes, analogue keyboards and my bouzouki, electric sitar and jazz guitar and a typical BBB-sound is the result.

The atmosphere and feeling that this music eludes are very personal to me, in that it is expressive of the specific bond I have with my brother Berthil. I find it very special to actually be able to make this music together, while being totally matter-of-fact about it at the same time. Perhaps a somewhat late Busstra Brothers debut album, but if you ask me, one that has arrived at the moment it could truly become just that: an album representative of and from the Buzz Brothers.

Marnix Busstra

After years of working with many different musicians in a variety of formations and situations, the idea of starting a band together with my brother Marnix was a challenging one. Actually, the question was not whether we could play well together, but rather which rhythm section we should ask to join us.

I'd played with drummer Chris before in various circumstances and was immediately sold on him: his fantastic groove combined with the tremendous openness and creativity in his playing is almost unheard of, something one seldom hears in musicianville.

I've often played with bassist René in other formations as well, and that has always been virtually effortless: it's sometimes like there's a telepathy in our communication which is almost scary at times.

Marnix and I have, of course, played together quite often in the past and we have great musical respect for each other. Frequently the interaction between keyboardists and guitarists is troublesome because it's so easy to get in each other's way harmonically and/or rhythmically. We have actually never had that problem. We know each other so well that we can anticipate each other's travels.

Each of the numbers on this CD are individually inspiring; they provide us with every possibility to musically express all that we feel and have inside us.

For me, the Buzz Bros Band is the most inspiring band of my career thus far.

Berthil Busstra

Marnix Busstra | guitar, electric sitar & bouzouki
Berthil Busstra | Fender-rhodes & keyboards
René Dissel | double bass
Chris Strik | drums

guest on track 3 and 10: Gevorg Veranian | duduk

Production: Turtle Records

Producers: Marnix Busstra & the 'Turtle team'

Recorded at Studio Down Under, Hilversum

Recording engineers: Bert van der Wolf, Fir Suidema
& Holger Schwedt

Assistant Recording Engineer: Sander van Unen

Stereo Mix & Editing: Holger Schwedt
& the 'Turtle team'

Stereo & Surround Mastering: Harry van Dalen,

Fir Suidema & Bert van der Wolf

Executive Producer: Martin Odijk

SACD Surround Sound requires Multi-Channel SACD player and compatible Surround Sound system.

SACD Stereo requires SACD player. CD Audio can be played on CD players.

photography & graphic design:
Rob Becker [beeldverhaal], Amsterdam
turtle logo design: Willem Kroon

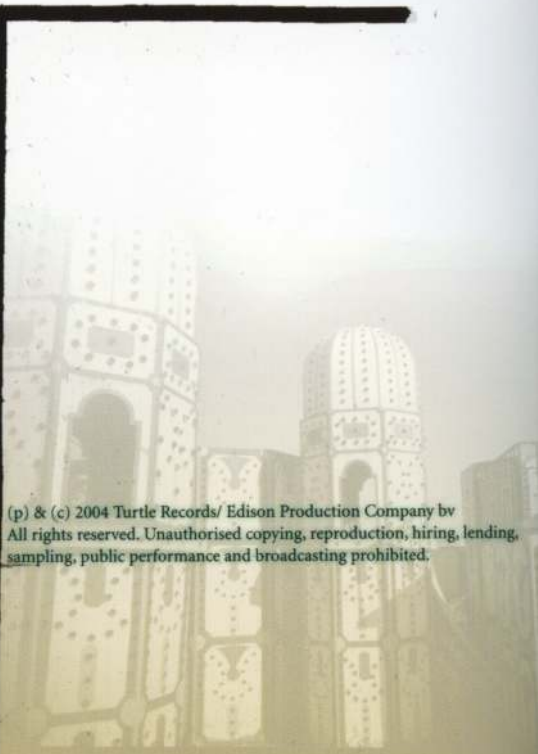

TRSA 0019
www.turtlerecords.com
info@turtlerecords.com

www.buzzmusic.nl
info@buzzmusic.nl

(p) & (c) 2004 Turtle Records/ Edison Production Company bv
All rights reserved. Unauthorised copying, reproduction, hiring, lending, sampling, public performance and broadcasting prohibited.

1. Castle in the air (short version) 1:14
 2. First class seat 5:20
 3. Pearl diver 6:09
 4. Nut case 5:41
 5. Frog country 4:09
 6. Grand-ma and the wolf 6:27
 7. She's gone 5:06
 8. Buzz Battle 2:46
 9. Authentic turtle 6:39
 10. Castle in the air (long version) 7:07
- total playing time 50:36*

all compositions by Marnix Busstra

Marnix Busstra | guitar, electric sitar & bouzouki

Berthil Busstra | Fender-rhodes & keyboards

René Dissel | double bass

Chris Strik | drums

guest on track 3 and 10: Gevorg Veranian | duduk

TRSA 0019 (p) & (c) 2004 Turtle Records/ Edison Production Company bv
All rights reserved. Unauthorised copying, reproduction, hiring, lending, sampling, public performance and broadcasting prohibited.

SACD Stereo SACD Surround Sound CD Audio

COMPACT
disc
DIGITAL AUDIO

DSD
Direct Stream Digital

SE
SUPER AUDIO CD

SURROUND

BUZZ BROS BAND